Note new examiner.

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 8 and 10-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for the amount of layered phyllosilicate (or a dispersion with a particular concentration thereof) and the duration (time) of an addition of said dispersion to a component, does not reasonably provide enablement for the claim having unlimited variations. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

Claims are silent as to the concentration of a dispersion of layered phyllosilicate and an amount (such as wt.%) of said layered phyllosilicate in the polyester resin or the duration (time) of an addition of said dispersion to a component. The current claims encompass unlimited amounts of said layered phyllosilicate and unlimited durations of an addition of said dispersion to a component. Thus, undue experimentation is needed to find out said amount (such as wt.%) of said layered phyllosilicate and processing time yielding the recited properties.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 8 and 10-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

The recited process and product thereof are indefinite in not specifying a concentration of a dispersion of layered phyllosilicate and an amount (such as wt.%) of said layered phyllosilicate in the polyester resin or the duration (time) of an addition of said dispersion to a component. The current claims encompass unlimited amounts of said layered phyllosilicate and unlimited durations of an addition of said dispersion to a component.

The recited "said layered phyllosilicate comprises a dispersion comprising ---" in claim 17 is confusing and incorrect since the layered phyllosilicate cannot be a dispersion since it is an inorganic material. Also, claim 10 (a product) does not recite "dispersion" and said product does not contain water, and thus claim 17 improperly broadens the scope of claim 10 and is indefinite. The process claim 8 recites a dispersion of layered phyllosilicate consisting of untreated phyllosilicate and water, and thus claim 17 is redundant.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Matabayas et al (WO 98/29499).

Rejection is maintained for reason of record and following response.

The examiner's position is that the polyester resin composition having layered phyllosilicate of Matabayas et al inherently meets the recited properties and applicant failed to show otherwise. An invention in a product-by-process is a product, not a process. See In re Brown, 459 F2d 531, 173 USPQ 685 (CCPA 1972) and In re Thorpe, 777 F2d 695, 697, 227 USPQ 964 (Fed. Cir. 1985).
